Prof. Stefano M. Candura

Medical Doctor (1985) and Specialist in Occupational Medicine (1989), with honors, at the University of Pavia, Italy. Former Postdoctoral Research Fellow at the University of Washington (Seattle, USA). Since 2000, in Pavia: Full Professor of Occupational Medicine, Director of the Specialization School in Occupational Medicine, and of the Occupational Medicine Unit of the Salvatore Maugeri Foundation.
He teaches Occupational Medicine in the MD English course, and in several other degree, specialization, master and PhD programmes.
Member of the Italian Society of Occupational Medicine and Industrial Hygiene, and of the Italian Society of Toxicology. Component of the editorial board of the Giornale Italiano di Medicina del Lavoro ed Ergonomia (Italian Journal of Occupational Medicine and Ergonomics). Expert witness and consultant in several judicial (penal and civil) proceedings.
Former referent of ministerial research projects, currently author of more than 400 scientific publications (journal papers, monographs, book chapters, conference proceedings, abstracts, scientific divulgation articles).
The clinical and research activity encompasses occupational and environmental toxicology, asbestos-related diseases, occupational musculo-skeletal disorders, work stress, work resumption after injury or cardiopathy.